CLERKING IN A GROCKEY.

When I was about 15 I though I was two smart to work our a farm; so armed with a handred dollars I went to town to try my lack. Every one I asked for work sang to me that old, old song about hard times, hard times, etc. This made me very homesick. At last, however, got a pake will be stored in every homesick. At last, however, got a pake will be stored in every homesick. At last, however, got a pake will be stored in every homesick. At last, however, got a pake will be stored in every homesick. hasband called for brandy in a few minutes, and when we refused to sell it to him he went away indignant. In about in hour he returned gloriously and triumphantly drunk, and boasted that he had "found a place where a decent man could get accommodation."

I had now been in business about four menths. For two months I had kept my temperance resolutions, but one windy day I caught a slight cold and the tempter whispered that some brandy toddy would do me good. I took the hint. It was a long time before I pronounced that little cold entirely cured, and then I used to take three or four drinks a day as a preventive. I had now become a regular toppler. I perceived that I had spent all the money I had brought with me, my smallwages, and was $40 in debt besides. the money I had brought with me, my small wages, and was $40 in debt besides. I concluded if I ever became famous, wealthy and powerful, I would have to leave that town. So, with far less bonor than did the noble Cincinnatus, I returned to the place turned to the plow. San Francisco, Oct. 6, 1873. E L. M.

THE EFFICACY OF PRAYER.

Colonel Jackson McLain, of Henderson, hy., is my authority for the follow-ing anecdote: About 1840 or '42, a cousson, hy, is my authority for the following anecdote: About 1840 or '42, a cousing of his moved to Tennessee, and shortly after doing so he became involved in a difficulty and killed a man near Trenton. He was indicted for murder, but left and returned to Kentucky. He killed the man in self-defense, but the wile of the murdered man being the only witness of the killing, he was afraid to intrust his cause to a jury, and yet reluctant to keep concealed. He deputized Colonel McLain to ascertain the probable testimony of the murderad man's wife, and to have an impeaching witness, if possible. She had been extremely reticent about the affair from the day of its occurrence, and the secret was locked in her own bosom. Colonel McLain sent for a young lawyer in an adjoining county, and they met in the woods near Trenton to plan. They had learned that she would be the following day and night thereof a visitor at the house of a pious Methodist, she being firm in the same faith. The young lawyer was unknown in "those parts," and it was arranged for him to go to an adjoing county, procure Bibles, and return, traveling as a "Bible agent" and minister. He appeared at the house aforesaid, as if by accident, and piously sold several books. It was getting late, and he applied for lodging for the night, but was refused until the widow came to his aid, being struck with the "young brother." Supper over, prayer was the order, and he the leader. Fervently his petitions ascended and his fortune made. brother." Supper over, prayer was the order, and he the leader. Fervently his petitions ascended and his fortune made. After prayer conversation touched upon various topics, the "young brother" leading it to murders and dangers met, overcome or successful. This woman, interested under the fascination of his manner of relating, became communica-tive, and the story of "poor, dear bus-band's death" related, but the supposed murderer justified; it was her husband's violence that led to it. The trial was hurried no. hurried up, the accused appeared, and the woman, to her utter surprise, recogthe woman, to her ulter surprise, recog-nized in the young lawyer appearing for the defense the former "Bible agent," and witted, and the verdict was "not quilty." Colonel McLain, a very prom-ment man in these parts, always gives this as one of the best illustrations of the "afficery of parter." The young the "efficacy of prayer." The young man was John A. Gardner.—Corr. Dresden (Tenn.) Democrat.

DEATH OF BARNUM'S RHINOCEROS.—
Early Monday afternoon, says the Baltimore Sun, of October 2d, Barnum's large rhinoceros, then on exhibition in Philadelphia, gave signs of unusual excitement, and presently began a vigorous assault upon the iron bars of the cage, vainly endeavoring to break through, and soon after died. The Philadelphia Telegraph says: The struggles of the great brute drew a crowd around the cage, but when the wood-work began to succumb to the furious assaults of the entraged animal, and it became evident that there was great danger of its escape ling from its confinement, the feeling of curiosity gave way to that of fear, and when the huge monster, with a terrific mort and powerful upward thrust of its DEATH OF BARNUM'S RHINOCEROS
